

Contents

I. Preface and Acknowledgements by the Editor	xi
II. Acknowledgements by the Authors	xiv
Abbreviations	xv

Georg Neumann

1 History of Excavations in Babylon	1
1.1 The Re-discovery of Babylon and Early Research	1
1.1.1 The Islamic Tradition	1
1.1.2 Early Travellers (12 th –16 th Century)	2
1.1.3 The Age of Travel (Second Half of the 16 th Century)	3
1.1.4 Pietro della Valle and the Beginning of Archaeological Research (17 th –18 th Century)	5
1.1.5 Archaeological Discovery and Excavations in the 19 th Century	10
1.2 Prelude to the German Excavations in (1884–1898)	23
1.2.1 Excursus: The Instructions for the Expedition to Babylon	29
1.3 The German Excavations in Babylon (1899–1917)	35
1.3.1 Organisation	42
1.3.2 Excavation Methodology	52
1.3.3 The Fate of the Finds from Babylon	54
1.4 Later Excavations in Babylon until Today	59
1.4.1 German Excavations 1962–1973	59
1.4.2 The “Archaeological Revival of Babylon Project”	60
1.4.3 Italian Excavations	61

Georg Neumann

2 Localisation and Availability of Data for the Koldewey Excavations	64
2.1 Excavation Documentation	64
2.2 Short Overview on Published Data and Analyses	65
2.2.1 Primary Publications	65
2.2.2 Secondary Publications	68

Georg Neumann

3 The Mounds of Babylon – an Overview	70
3.1 Bābil	70
3.2 Qaşr	70
3.3 Şahn	70
3.4 ‘Amrān	71
3.5 Išān-’Aswad	71

3.6 Merkez	71
3.7 Homera (Išān al-'Ahmar)	71
3.8 Eastern Mound or Bīt Akītu-Mound	71
Georg Neumann
4 The Archaeological Contexts of the Neo-Babylonian Archives	72
4.1 Preliminary Remarks	72
4.1.1 Pits	72
4.1.2 Plana	72
4.1.3 Excavation Speed	73
4.1.4 Elevations and Measurements	73
4.1.5 Pottery	73
4.1.6 Fire and Destruction Horizons	73
4.1.7 Strategies	75
4.2 Archival Contexts in the Merkez Area	78
4.2.1 Preliminary Remarks	78
4.2.2 N8 – The Context of the Texts from the Ištar Temple	80
4.2.3 N9 – The Context of the Texts from the Buildings East of the Ištar Temple	97
4.2.4 N10 – The Context of the Texts from House VI	136
4.2.5 N11 – The Context of the Archive of the Ingallēa Family (found in two Clay Vessels)	150
4.2.6 N12 – The Context of the Iddin-Nabû-Archive of the Egibi Family	155
4.2.7 N13 – The Context of Neo-Babylonian Clay Tablets from the Merkez Outside the “Archives”	156
4.3 Archival Contexts in the Qaşr Area	170
4.3.1 N5 – The Context of the Text from the Ninmaḥ Temple	170
4.3.2 N7 – The Context of Neo-Babylonian Clay Tablets from the Qaşr Outside the “Archives”	193
4.4 Archival Contexts in the Išān-'Aswad Area	195
4.4.1 N14 – The Contexts of the Texts from the Ninurta Temple	195
4.4.2 N15 – The Context of the Archival Remains from the Trenches North-East and East of the Ninurta Temple	231
4.4.3 N16 – The Context of the Texts from the Išḫara Temple	290
4.4.4 N17 – School Tablets found at the Inner City Wall in the South of Išān-'Aswad (N17)	299
4.5 Archival Contexts in the 'Amrān Area	301
4.5.1 N18 – Texts from the 'Amrān Trenches North of the Išḫara Temple	301
4.5.2 N19 – Trench 'Amrān 35x	308
4.5.3 N20 – Context of the Text Finds from the Marduk Temple	316
4.6 Tablet Finds Outside of the Archives from 'Amrān, Ṣaḥn, Homera, and Bābil (N21–24)	331

4.6.1 'Amrān (N21)	331
4.6.2 Şaḥn (N22)	336
4.6.3 Homera (N23)	338
4.6.4 Bābil (N24)	340
4.7 Final remarks	340
Christine Kainert
5 The Pottery from the Areas of the Neo-Babylonian Archives in Babylon	341
5.1 Introduction and Research Aims	341
5.2 Setting of the Pottery Analysis	341
5.3 Data Basis	343
5.3.1 General Information	343
5.3.2 Pottery of the Contexts Investigated by GoviB	346
5.4 Pottery Data and Comparisons	347
5.4.1 Discussion of Wares	347
5.4.2 Catalogue of Vessel-Types and Comparisons	352
5.5 Discussion of Pottery Contexts	394
5.5.1 Qaşr	394
5.5.2 Merkez	396
5.5.3 Işān 'Aswad	408
5.5.4 'Amrān	412
5.6 Summary	415
Christine Kainert
Plates I–XXXIV	423
6 Bibliography	493