

Contents

List of Contributors	vii
Introduction: The Agency of Integration and Connectivity in the North-Western Mediterranean (Toni Naco del Hoyo, Jordi Principal and Mike Dobson)	ix
ROME, ITALY AND THE WEST	1
1. Rome and the Western Mediterranean (150–70 BC): Empire and War François Cadiou	3
2. Non-Roman Coins in Italy: The Influence of Western Connections (3rd–1st Centuries BC) Marleen K. Termeer	13
3. Military Connectivity between Romans and Non-Romans in the West Fernando Quesada Sanz	23
4. Transactions, Trading Practices and Structures in the Western Mediterranean: The Impact of Roman Hegemony Alexis Gorgues (with the collaboration of Thibaud Poigt)	37
5. Ligurians, Gatekeepers of the West 197–118 BC Gerard R. Ventós and Gerard Cabezas-Guzmán	47
HISPANIA CITERIOR AND TRANSALPINE GAUL	57
6. Initial Indications of a Roman Presence East of the Pyrenees: A Possible Transition Zone between Gaul and Iberia in the Late 3rd and Early 2nd Centuries BC Étienne Roudier, Ingrid Dunyach and Jérôme Bénèzet	59
7. Numantia. A Green and Pleasant Land. Not Once the Romans Arrived! Mike Dobson	67
8. Trading Networks in Transalpine Gaul before and after the Conquest of 125 BC Corinne Sanchez	81
9. Late Iron Age Iberians from Coastal North-Eastern Hispania and Rome Josep Burch, Ana Costa, Neus Coromina, Josep M. Nolla, Lluís Palahí, Marc Prat, Jordi Sagrera, Josefina Simon, David Vivó and Jordi Vivo	97
10. Late Iron Age Iberians and Rome in the Segre Valley (North-East Hispania): Transformation and Integration Borja Martín Chacón and Ignasi Garcés Estallo	105
11. Tolosa Tectosagum : A Wide-Ranging Connectivity Hub between Transalpine Gaul, Aquitania and Hispania Citerior Pierre Moret	121
12. Coinage from North-East Hispania Citerior and Rome, c. 150–70 BC Marta Campo	131
13. A Fistful of Denarii . Coinage, Conquest and Connectivity in Southern Gaul (c. 150–c. 70 BC) Eneko Hiriart and Charles Parisot-Sillon	143

SEABORNE CONNECTIVITY	159
14. Shipwrecks and Trade in the North-Western Mediterranean during the 3rd and 2nd Centuries BC: The Sea as an Agent of Connectivity Franca Cibecchini	161
15. Emporion and its Port during the 2nd Century BC Pere Castanyer, Marta Santos, Joaquim Tremoleda and Elisa Hernández	173
16. Exploring the ‘Cultural Revolution’ in Ancient Sicily between Hellenisation and Romanisation: A Reassessment Daniele Malfitana	189
17. Between Carthage and Rome: Artisans, Businessmen and Colonists in Roman Republican Sardinia (150–50 BC) Antonio Ibba	203
18. Rome and the Political Dimension of Piracy in the North-Western Mediterranean Alfonso Álvarez-Ossorio Rivas	217
19. Between Traders and Pirates. Connectivity in the Balearic Islands from the Second Punic War to the Mid-1st Century BC Bartomeu Vallori-Márquez	227
20. Rome and the North-Western Mediterranean: Ports-of-Call and Sea Routes Gerard Cabezas-Guzmán and Gerard R. Ventós	237
EPILOGUE	245
21. The Roman and Italian Economic Diaspora as a Factor of Connectivity between Italy and the Eastern Mediterranean, 150–70 BC Sophia Zoumbaki and Michalis Karambinis	247
22. A Message in a Bottle Crossing the North-Western Mediterranean Jordi Principal and Toni Ñaco del Hoyo	259
Index	271