

The Philosophy of Werner Herzog

Edited by M. Blake Wilson and Christopher Turner

LEXINGTON BOOKS
Lanham • Boulder • New York • London

Contents

Foreword	ix
Paul Cronin
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	xiii
Christopher Turner and M. Blake Wilson
1 "I Am What My Films Are": Listening to Herzog's Ecstatic, Essayistic Pronouncements	1
David LaRocca
2 Herzog's Sublime and Ecstatic Truth : From Burke's Physiological Aesthesis to the Dionysian Unveiling	21
Patricia Castello Branco
3 The Conquest of Uselessness as a Practice of Film and Thought	39
Daniele Dottorini
4 Filmmaking and Philosophizing against the Grain of Theory: Herzog and Wittgenstein	55
Mihai Ometiță
5 Nature and Natural Meaning in Grizzly Man	69
Marc Furstenau
6 Reflections from the Abyss: Herzog's Philosophy of Death	95
M. Blake Wilson
7 Fake News and Ecstatic Truths: Alternative Facts in Lessons of Darkness	117
Kyle Novak
8 The Great Ecstasy of Werner Herzog: Truth, Heidegger, Apocalypse	135
Ian Alexander Moore
9 The Film Artist as Discoverer of the Marvels of Everyday Life: a Kracauerian Reading of Werner Herzog	153
Christopher Turner
10 Werner Herzog and the Documentary as a Revelatory Practice	171
Antony Fredriksson

11	On Experience and Illumination: Werner Herzog's Dialectical Relationship with Society	187
	Stefanie Baumann
12	Herzog's Philosophy of Masculinism	203
	Will Lehman
13	Herzog's Post-Tragic Aesthetic: A Kierkegaardian Perspective	215
	Anthony Eagan and Simon Thornton
14	Werner Herzog on Circles, Chickens and Impotency	233
	Tyler Tritten
	Index	253
	Contributors	261