

The Archaeology of War

The History of Violence between the 20th and 21st Centuries

Private lecturer Dr paed. habil. Dr phil. habil.
Christian Wevelsiep, Bochum, Germany

ANTHEM PRESS

CONTENTS

Introduction: Understanding the Violence	viii
A Form of Critical Philosophy of History	viii
Critical Reflection: Domination and Violence	x
Dark Spots in History	xvi
Reflection of Violence	xviii
PART I
VIOLENCE AND HISTORY	1
Chapter One	War as ‘Becoming’: On the Ontology of Conflict	3
	History of Power	8
	History in the Space	10
	The Power of Geography	11
	Space as an Aesthetic and Cultural Dimension	13
	Violence and Order	16
	The Sense and Sensibility of Violence	19
	Between Nature and Culture	20
Chapter Two	The Embodiment of the Victim: Phenomenology of Violence Suffered	25
PART II
DARK SPOTS IN HISTORY	31
	The Phatic Function of Cultural Memory	34
	Understanding the Century	35
	Orientation between the Centuries	35
Chapter Three	Colonial Violence: The Dark Sides of the Modern State	37
	Remembrance of Colonial Violence in ‘German Southwest Africa’	37
	Violence in the Shadows: The Armenian Genocide	40
	The Colonial Gaze: Reflections on Cultural Psychology	44

Chapter Four	Hate: On the enigma of divisiveness in the age of the total	49
	The Existence of the Hate	50
	The Motif of Refusal	53
	Understanding the Ordinary and the Extraordinary	55
	Violence and Meaning	58
Chapter Five	Disastrous Violence: Ideologies	63
	The Terrible Banality	64
	The Reality of Evil	67
	Ideologies and Doctrines	68
	The War as a Noumenon	71
	The Motive of Enmity	74
	The Peculiar Emptiness of Morality	78
Chapter Six	Politics, Violence and Sacrality	81
	Religious Dark Spots	82
	What Remains? On the Sacral Dimension of the Present	86
Chapter Seven	The Frightening Love of War	95
	Violence and Philosophy	96
	The War as a Teacher	98
	Aporias of Violence	101
	The Meaning of War	104
	Under the Sign of Non-violence	107
 PART III
BETWEEN THE TWENTIETH AND TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY: THE WORLDVIEW OF CONCERN		111
Chapter Eight	The Valorative Space in Times of War	117
	Modernity and Violence	118
	Understanding the Violence	121
	Philosophy of History in the Face of Violence	122
Chapter Nine	What Does 'Learning from History' Mean? On the Implicit Pedagogy of History	127
	Introduction	127
	Philosophy of History after the Illusion of Feasibility	129
	The Power of Narration	131
	Dialogical Culture of History	135
	The Implicit Understanding of Hermeneutics	137

CONTENTS

vii

Chapter Ten	War Again? The Contribution of Philosophy to the Phenomenon of War	141
	Introduction	141
	The Preference of the Own	143
	Violence and Order	145
	The Challenge of Enmity	149
Chapter Eleven	From the Worldview of War to the Worldview of Concern	153
	Politics and Life	154
	The Logic of Worldviews	156
	The Worldview of War	159
	The Worldview of Concern	163
	Philosophy and History	166
Bibliography		171
Index		185