

The Image of Mesopotamian Divine Healers

Healing Goddesses and the Legitimization of Professional asûs in the Mesopotamian Medical Marketplace

By

Irene Sibbing-Plantholt

BRILL

LEIDEN | BOSTON

Contents

Acknowledgements XI

Abbreviations XIV

- 1 Newly Understanding Healing Goddesses and asûs: Theory and Methods 1
  - 1.1 Introduction 1
  - 1.2 Rethinking Healing Goddesses 8
    - 1.2.1 Healing Goddesses as a Category 8
    - 1.2.2 A Brief History of Scholarship on Healing Goddesses 9
  - 1.3 Rethinking Mesopotamian Healers 14
    - 1.3.1 Health Care Systems and the Medical Marketplace 14
    - 1.3.2 The Development of the "Medical Profession" in Ancient Mesopotamia 18
    - 1.3.3 Indigenous vs. Scholarly Medicine and Hegemonic/Theistic vs. Domestic/Holistic Domain 21

PART I

The Various Healing Goddesses and Their Relationship to asûs

- 2 The Origins of the Healing Goddess Gula 27
  - 2.1 Gu<sub>2</sub>-la<sub>2</sub> and Gula in the 3rd Millennium B.C.E. 28
  - 2.2 Disentangling Gula, Gu<sub>2</sub>-la<sub>2</sub> and (U)kulla(b) 33
    - 2.2.1 Trans-Tigridian Snake and Healing Deities 33
    - 2.2.2 Ab-u<sub>2</sub> as Spouse of Gu<sub>2</sub>-la<sub>2</sub>, Gula and/or (U)kulla(b)? 35
    - 2.2.3 (U)kulla(b), Gu<sub>2</sub>-la<sub>2</sub>, and Gula 39
    - 2.2.4 Conclusion: Who Is Who? 43
  - 2.3 Gula's Involvement in Healing and Midwifery in the Ur III Period 44
    - 2.3.1 Association with asûs through Cult 45
    - 2.3.2 Association with Other Healing Goddesses 46
    - 2.3.3 Gula and Childbirth 48
- 3 Gula in the 2nd and 1st Millennia B.C.E. 51
  - 3.1 Gula in the Old Babylonian Period 51
    - 3.1.1 Gula's Cult Centers in the Old Babylonian Period 51
      - 3.1.1.1 Nippur 51

- 3.1.1.2 Larsa and Isin 53
      - 3.1.1.3 Sippar 56
    - 3.1.2 Gula as asû and Different Healing Domains in the Old Babylonian Period 58
    - 3.1.3 Other Healing Settings 62
  - 3.2 Gula in the 2nd Half of the 2nd Millennium B.C.E. 63
    - 3.2.1 Gula's Increased Significance in Babylonia 63
      - 3.2.1.1 Nippur 64
      - 3.2.1.2 Dûr-Kurigalzu 67
      - 3.2.1.3 Isin 68
      - 3.2.1.4 Sippar and Hilpu 71
    - 3.2.2 Gula in Image in Babylonia 72
    - 3.2.3 Gula in Assyria and the Periphery 73
      - 3.2.3.1 The Temple of Gula at Aššur 73
      - 3.2.3.2 Gula and asûs at Mardaman 75
      - 3.2.3.3 (Scholarly) Sources from the Western Periphery 76
    - 3.2.4 Gula and Her Connection to Healing 77
      - 3.2.4.1 The Title asû/azugallatu and Healing Qualities 77
      - 3.2.4.2 Requests for Healing: Figurines and Votive Inscriptions 81
  - 3.3 Gula in the 1st Millennium B.C.E. 83
    - 3.3.1 Gula's Cult in Babylonia and Assyria 83
      - 3.3.1.1 Temples, Their Names, and Related Divine Epithets 89
      - 3.3.1.2 Gula and/as Bēlet-balāti, the "Mistress Who Provides Life" 91
      - 3.3.1.3 Gula as asû/azugallatu, and Her Power over Life 92
      - 3.3.1.4 Gula as Other Healers: The Domestic, Motherly Healer and Midwife 103
  - 3.4 Conclusion 104
- 4 Gula Compared to Other Healing Goddesses 106
  - 4.1 Ninkarrak 106
    - 4.1.1 Ninkarrak: The Name 106
    - 4.1.2 The Origins of Ninkarrak: A Liminal Curse and Oath Deity 110
    - 4.1.3 Ninkarrak in the Mesopotamian Heartland: Becoming a Healing Deity 115
    - 4.1.4 Ninkarrak after the Old Babylonian Period 119
  - 4.2 Ninisina 123
    - 4.2.1 Ninisina in the 3rd and Early 2nd Millennia B.C.E. 123

- 4.2.1.1 Cult and Divine Relationships of Ninisina 123
- 4.2.1.2 Ninisina as the Epitomy of Healing 127
- 4.2.2 Ninisina after the Old Babylonian Period 136
- 4.3 Bau 139
  - 4.3.1 Bau in the 3rd and Early 2nd Millennia B.C.E: Mother and Healer 139
  - 4.3.2 Bau after the Old Babylonian Period 143
- 4.4 Nintinuga 146
  - 4.4.1 The Name and Origins of Nintinuga 146
  - 4.4.2 Nintinuga in the 2nd and 1st Millennia B.C.E. 148
- 4.5 Meme 153
- 4.6 Comparative Analysis of the Healing Goddesses 156

PART 2

Asûs in the Mesopotamian Medical Marketplace

- 5 An Overview of the Mesopotamian Medical Marketplace 165
  - 5.1 Lay and Domestic Healing 166
  - 5.2 Folk Healing 172
    - 5.2.1 Specialists in Plants, Food and Healing 173
    - 5.2.2 Clothes Menders or Stitchers: The <sup>lu</sup>2tu<sub>g</sub>2-kal-kal-la/mukabbû 176
    - 5.2.3 Snake Handlers: The mušlahḫu 177
    - 5.2.4 Barbers and Hairdressers: The šu-i/gallābu 184
    - 5.2.5 Female Healers 188
    - 5.2.6 The muna”išu and mušallim(ān)u 192
  - 5.3 Professional Healers: The Scholars 194
    - 5.3.1 A New Development of Scholarly Identity in the Late 2nd Millennium B.C.E. 194
    - 5.3.2 (Professional) Healers among the Scholars: bārû, āšipu, and asû 202
- 6 Rethinking the Term “asû” 208
  - 6.1 Asû as a General Term: “Healer” 208
  - 6.2 Different Types of asûs and Intersections with Other Healers 212
    - 6.2.1 Asûs as Healers of Humans and Animals 212
    - 6.2.2 Specializations of asûs 215
    - 6.2.3 Female asûs 217
  - 6.3 The Functions and Work Environments of asûs 219

- 6.3.1 Public Duties and Private Practice of asûs 219
- 6.3.2 Asûs of the City/State Administration and the asûs from the Periphery 227
- 6.3.3 Royal Recognition: asûs Working Directly for Palace and King 229
- 6.3.4 Asûs as Scholars 231
- 6.3.5 The Organization of asûs: Overseers, Apprentices, and Guilds 234
- 6.3.6 Asûs and the Temple 239
- 6.3.7 Asû as an Occupation in the Late 1st Millennium B.C.E. 241
- 6.4 Conclusion 243

PART 3

Legitimacy in the Medical Marketplace: Divine and Human Professional asûs

- 7 Legitimization as a Response to Competition and the Demands of Clientele 249
  - 7.1 Medical Competition and the Need for Legitimization 249
  - 7.2 Promoting Erudition as a Scholarly Response to Medical Competition 252
    - 7.2.1 Antagonism between the Educated/Competent and the Uneducated/Incompetent 252
    - 7.2.2 "The Incompetent Other" in Medical Satire 255
    - 7.2.3 Exclusive Knowledge of Exotic and Rare Healing Products 261
  - 7.3 The Professional asûs' Solution to Competition: A Divine Image 263
- 8 The Process of Gula Becoming the Divine Legitimization of Professional asûs 267
  - 8.1 Healing Goddesses and Legitimization before the Middle Babylonian Period 267
  - 8.2 Gula Legitimizing Professional asûs from the Middle Babylonian Period 273
  - 8.3 Gula Representing Competition between Professional asûs and Other Healers 283
    - 8.3.1 Competition among Scholars: Gula Increasing Power of Professional asûs 284
    - 8.3.2 Gula Incorporating (Female) Lay and Folk Healers and Their Healing Practices 291

8.3.3 Gula and the Knife: Gula Incorporating the Art of the gallābus 302

9 Conclusion and Suggestions for Future Research 311

Bibliography 317

Temple Names 386

Selected Akkadian Terms 387

Selected Sumerian Terms 389

Geographical Names 390

Names of Deities, Demons, Spirits and Monsters 392

Seals and Seal Impressions 395

Text References 397