

JAAP EVERT ABRAHAMSE
GIEL VAN HOOFF
WILFRIED UITTERHOEVE

Historical Atlas of Eindhoven

From a small market town to the centre of the Brainport region

WITH A CHAPTER BY
BERNARD COLENBRANDER
ABOUT THE TU/e CAMPUS

THOTH Publishers Bussum

Contents

Foreword 4

Acknowledgements 6

1	Between two small streams	6
2	Villages, mills and castles	8
3	The town politics of Henry I of Brabant	10
4	Medieval town planning	12
5	A town on the front line	14
6	Centuries of stagnation	16
7	The main road to Liège	18
8	A new canal to Eindhoven	20
9	A city on the railway line	22
10	Textiles, tobacco and wood	24
11	Agrarian Eindhoven	26
12	'Philips' Wonderland'	28
13	A city of industrial monuments	30
14	Housing for the people	32
15	The Tongelre villa park	34
16	The underground city	36
17	Design for annexation	38
18	Greater Eindhoven	40
19	Onward without a plan	42
20	Urban development and regional planning	44
21	The 'Witte Dorp' housing estate	46
22	The Second World War	48
23	Reconstruction of the city centre	50
24	The station district	52
25	A town hall for Greater Eindhoven	54
26	The fifth-largest city in the Netherlands	56
27	From modernist extensions to 'cauliflower' neighbourhoods	58
28	Genderdal, Hagenkamp and 't Hool	60
29	From Cityplan to Heuvel Galerie	62
30	Roadway plans	64
31	Vinex in Eindhoven	66
32	Adaptive reuse	68
33	Brainport	70
34	Eindhoven XL	72
35	The unplannable city	74
	The university campus	76

Literature and websites 93

Sources of illustrations 95

Credits 96