

Phoenicians among Others

Why Migrants Mattered in the Ancient Mediterranean

DENISE DEMETRIOU

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
List of Abbreviations	xvii
Introduction: Why Phoenician Migrants Matter	i
1. The Adaptive Repertoires of Immigrants	15
2. Phoenician Trade Associations	50
3. Managing Migration	70
4. Honors, Privileges, and Greek Migration Regimes	92
5. Phoenicians beyond Greek Communities	120
Conclusion	157
Bibliography	161
Index	193

Illustrations

Maps

1. The Mediterranean	xxi
2. The Levant	xxii
3. The Aegean	xxiii
4. The central Mediterranean	xxiv

Figures

1.1. Grave Stele of Shem—/Antipatros from Ashkelon, c. 300 BCE (IG II² 8388)	16
1.2. Tombstone of Benhodesh/Noumenios the Kitian, 350–300 BCE	26
1.3. Tombstone of Abtanit/Artemidoros from Sidon, c. 400 BCE	32
1.4. Close-up of the relief and epigram of Shem—/Antipatros’ tombstone with the relief and epigram (IG II² 8388)	35
1.5. Marble stele of Abdeshmoun, early fourth century BCE	39
1.6. Tombstone of Eirene from Byzantion, early fourth century BCE	40
1.7. Painted funerary stele of Mertounmikim of Ashkelon from Demetrias, third century BCE	41
2.1. Stele with the Kitian traders’ request for the right to own property, 333/332 BCE (IG II³ 1 337)	51
2.2. Plan of the building of the Berytian association of traders, shippers, and warehouse workers (the Poseidoniastai) on Delos	64
3.1. Bilingual dedication by the Sidonian royal family on Kos, late fourth century BCE (IG XII.4 2 546 = KAI 292)	74
3.2. Bilingual dedication in the Sanctuary of Apollo on Delos by the Tyrian hieronautai , 340s–330s BCE (I.Délos 50 = CIS I 114)	78

3.3. A Sidonian koinon honoring one of its members in Athens, late fourth / early third century BCE (IG II² 2946 = KAI 60)	84
4.1. Stele recording the honors and privileges granted to Herakleides over the period of 330–325 BCE (IG II³ 1 367)	93
4.2. Attic stele honoring King Abdashtart of Sidon, c. 360s BCE (IG II² 141)	109
5.1. Dedicatory stele by Paalashtart with a Phoenician and hieroglyphic inscription, second or first century BCE	121
5.2. Dedication to Tanit and Baal Hammon by a descendant of a Tyrian immigrant in Carthage, fourth–second centuries BCE	131
5.3a–b. Bronze statuette of Harpokrates with a Phoenician inscription (KAI 52)	138
5.4a–b. Bronze statuette of Harpokrates with a Phoenician inscription and hieroglyphic inscription	139
5.5a–b. One of the twin monuments from Malta dedicated by two Tyrian brothers, second century BCE (IG XIV 600 = KAI 47 = CIS I 122bis)	149
5.6. The second of the twin monuments from Malta dedicated by two Tyrian brothers, second century BCE (IG XIV 600 = KAI 47 = CIS I 122bis)	150
5.7. Bronze altar base with a trilingual inscription in Latin, Greek, and Punic, from Sardinia, first century BCE (CIL 10 7856 = IG XIV 608 = KAI 66)	152
5.8a–b. Ivory hospitality token between a Phoenician and a Greek from Lilybaion, second or first century BCE (IG XIV 279)	154