

PATRIOTS ★ TRAITORS

IN REVOLUTIONARY CUBA, 1961-1981

LILLIAN GUERRA

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH PRESS

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments

vii

INTRODUCTION

From “¡Patria o Muerte!” to “¡Patria y Vida!”:
Excavating the Nation from the State, Explaining Cuba’s
Internal Cold War

3

CHAPTER 1

Lessons in Loving the Revolution:
Political Education, Violence, and the 1961 Literacy Campaign

35

CHAPTER 2

Securing the State, 1961–1966:
Fear, Surveillance, and National Liberation

77

CHAPTER 3

The Generous Revolution:
Rehabilitation, Political Prisoners, and Coercive Inclusion in the 1960s

119

CHAPTER 4

The “Anti-Revolution” of the Late 1960s:
Reeducation, Integration, and Everyday Authoritarianism

151

CONTENTS

CHAPTER 5

Young Communists, Former Slum Dwellers,
and the Lewis Project in Cuba, 1968–1972

189

CHAPTER 6

Labor, the Pedagogy of Love, and Cuba's Child Revolutionaries, 1968–1972

223

CHAPTER 7

Los Años Rojos (The Red Years):
Cuba in the 1970s

253

CHAPTER 8.

The Road to El Mariel:
Perfectionism, Alienation, Exhaustion, and the New Man

303

CHAPTER 9

“We Are Happy Here”:
Amplifying the Revolutionary Script and the Crisis of El Mariel

339

EPILOGUE

The Paradigm of Patriots and Traitors Revisited:
Exodus as Opposition and the Uncertain Future of Democracy Lost

391

Notes

409

Bibliography

461

Index

479