

SUSANNAH CORNWALL
University of Exeter

Constructive Theology and Gender Variance

Transformative Creatures

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgements page ix

PART I SETTING THE SCENE

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 1 | Introduction: Transformative Creatures | 3 |
| 2 | Detransition, Impermanence, and the Innocence of Changing One's Mind | 32 |
| 3 | Existing Christian Theological Responses to Transition: Being Transformed/Being, Transformed | 60 |

PART II TELLING TRUTHS

- | | | |
|---|--|-----|
| 4 | Autonomy and Trans People: Authenticity, Responsibility, Recognition | 105 |
| 5 | Gender Transition, Truth-Telling, and Artifice | 139 |
| 6 | Self-Protection or 'Gender Fraud'? Ethics and the Burden of Disclosure | 162 |

PART III LIMITS, TECHNOLOGY, AND HEALTH

- | | | |
|---|--|-----|
| 7 | Technological Interventions and Licit Limits: On the Alteration and Augmentation of Bodies | 185 |
| 8 | Trans People, Health, and Diversities of Order | 218 |

CONTENTS

9	Fertility, Generativity, and Gender Theology in the Optative Mood	251
---	---	-----

PART IV TRANSFORMATIVE CREATURES

10	Transforming Humanity: Gender, Race, and Animality	281
----	--	-----

11	In Christ, Everything Has Changed: Christology and Creation	309
----	---	-----

12	Transformative Creatures Reprised: Theological Anthropology and Eschatology	335
----	---	-----

	References	367
--	-------------------	-----

	Author Index	415
--	---------------------	-----

	Subject Index	417
--	----------------------	-----