

PASCAL BRUCKNER

A Brief Eternity

A Philosophy of Longevity

Translated by Steven Rendall and Lisa Neal

polity

Contents

A Note on the Text viii

Introduction: The Unfrocked Priests of the Cult of Youth 1

Part I

The Indian Summer of Life

- 1 Giving Up on Giving Up 9
The swinging door – Cold shower – Wisdom or resignation?
- 2 Staying in the Dynamics of Desire 25
Retreat or disaster? – The philosophical age – What shall we do with our twenty years (of additional life)?

Part II

Life Always Begun Again

- 3 The Saving Routine 41
“It is enough to be” – The splendor of the trivial – Here begins the new life – The two natures of repetition – The eternal rebirth – Swan song or dawn?
- 4 The Interweaving of Time 65
Live as if you were to die at any moment? – The old boudoir of the past – It’s always the first time – Become like children again? – Our phantom selves

Contents

Part III Late Love Affairs

- 5 Desire Late in Life 83
Asymmetries and expiry dates – The yoke of concupiscence
– Indecent requests
- 6 Eros and Agape in the Shadow of Thanatos 100
Devotees of the twilight – The tragedy of the last love – The chaste, the tender and the voluptuous

Part IV Fulfill Oneself or Forget Oneself?

- 7 No More, Too Late, Still! 115
Lost opportunities – The round of regrets – Kairos, the god of timeliness – On the blank page of your future lives
- 8 Make a Success of One's Life, and Then What? 134
I am I, alas – The three faces of freedom – A door opening on the unknown – Succeed, but not entirely – Not everything is possible

Part V What Does Not Die in Us

- 9 Death, Where is Thy Victory? 157
Monsieur Seguin's Goat – Eternity in love with time – The luck to die some day? – “Love what will never be seen twice?” – The martyrs of endurance – The zombie in us
- 10 The Immortality of Mortals 176
What do bodily ills teach us? – The hierarchy of pains
– Poor consolations – Just a moment, Mr Executioner –
Eternity is here and now
- Conclusion: Love, Celebrate, Serve 194
- Notes 198