

AN INTRODUCTION TO FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS IN EUROPE

HISTORY, THEORY, CASES

ALESSANDRA FACCHI

SILVIA FALCETTA

NICOLA RIVA

 Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

KAT:LOG

FULL CONTENTS

Preface	ix
List of abbreviations	xi
PART I HISTORY
Alessandra Facchi
Introduction	1
1 Origins: from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century	4
1.1 The 'free man' and his natural rights	4
1.2 The Enlightenment: rights, reason, and legal reform	9
1.3 Declarations of rights in the eighteenth century	13
2 From man's natural rights to citizens' fundamental rights	18
2.1 The positivization of rights	18
2.2 Civil and political rights: people included and people excluded	22
2.3 The rise of economic and social rights	24
3 Fundamental human rights and their multilevel protection	31
3.1 The refoundation of fundamental rights and constitutional systems	31
3.2 International human rights: law, theories, and practice	33
3.3 The Europe of rights	39
PART II THEORY
Nicola Riva
Introduction	44
4 The idea of fundamental rights	46
4.1 The concept of rights	46
4.2 Some distinctions about rights	50
4.3 Two concepts of fundamental rights	55
5 The reality of fundamental rights	59
5.1 Classes of fundamental rights	59
5.2 The implementation of fundamental rights	63
5.3 Conflicts involving fundamental rights	69
6 The justification of fundamental rights	75
6.1 The problem of the justification of fundamental rights	75
6.2 Fundamental rights, legitimacy, and democracy	81
6.3 The justification of specific fundamental rights	86

PART III CASES

Silvia Falcetta

Introduction	92
7 Sex, gender, sexual orientation	96
7.1 Sex and gender	96
7.2 Sexual orientation and gender identity	102
7.3 Marriage and family	106
8 Employment, social protection, the environment	111
8.1 Employment	111
8.2 Social protection	114
8.3 The environment	120
9 Religion, 'race' and ethnicity, culture	125
9.1 Religion	125
9.2 'Race' and ethnicity	130
9.3 Culture	134
Index	140