

Stefano Micali

Phenomenology of Anxiety

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1	1 The Anthropological Relevance of Anxiety.....	1
2	2 Polyphonic Phenomenology.....	10
	References.....	14
2	Anxiety Between Terror and Fear	17
1	1 Terror and Radical Strangeness.....	17
2	2 Insane Terror: Ghosts between Projections and Impressions.....	21
3	3 Blind Terror and the Inhuman Gaze.....	25
4	4 About the Actuality of the Past Trauma.....	30
	4.1 On Intrusion.....	33
	4.2 Numbing.....	36
	4.3 Dissociative Tendencies.....	41
	4.4 Hypervigilance: On Novelty.....	46
5	5 The Future of Trauma.....	48
6	6 Anxiety as Protection from Trauma: Medusa and Perseus.....	52
	References.....	56
3	Anxiety Between Negative Connotation and Positive Teleology: Sartre, Kierkegaard and Heidegger	59
1	1 Freedom's Vertigo.....	59
2	2 Negative Anthropology.....	65
3	3 Is Anxiety Subordinated to Faith?.....	72
4	4 Nothing and Being: Against Parmenides.....	75
5	5 Heidegger's Concept of the Nothing in the Context of the Metaphysical Tradition.....	83
6	6 Enchanted Calm.....	87
7	7 The Plurality of the Nothing.....	93
8	8 The Ashes of the Past.....	97
	References.....	106

4	Anxiety, Desire and Imagination	111
1	On Philosophy Today	111
2	The Phenomenological Gaze	113
3	Anxiety-Preparedness and Anxiety Development	119
4	A Tentative Digression on Ghosts and on Urdoxa	122
5	Painful Expectation of the Negative	129
6	Anxiety Between Excess of Desire and Repetition of Trauma	131
7	Phenomenology of Phantasy	137
8	Clear and Unclear Phantasies	140
9	Inner Consciousness	142
9.1	Inner Consciousness as Impressional Consciousness	142
9.2	Inner Time-Consciousness in the Light of the Relation Between Primary Impression, Protention and Retention	144
10	Unclear Phantasy and Affective Life	148
	References	151
5	Anxiety: A Phenomenological Investigation	155
1	Trait of Anxiety: Its Quasi-Intentional Imaginative Anticipation	155
1.1	Supplementary Possibilities	155
1.2	Imaginative Anticipation: The Doxic Modality of Anxiety	157
1.3	The Ghosts of Anxiety: The Knight, Death, the Devil (and the Dog)	159
1.4	Approaching the (Always Postponed) Catastrophe	163
2	Trait of Anxiety: Its Negative Inspiration	166
2.1	On Adam	166
2.2	Presages of the Third Reich	169
3	Trait of Anxiety: The Alteration of its Bodily Manifestations	171
3.1	Self-Referentiality and Embodiment: The Recurrence of its Bodily Manifestations	171
3.2	A Threatening Atmosphere	174
4	Trait: Interlocution with an Alien Power	179
4.1	How Does One Become Responsible for One's Own Anxiety?	179
4.2	Anxiety as Alien Power	183
5	Trait of Anxiety: Negative Teleology	184
5.1	The Ambiguity of the Anxiety-Preparedness	184
5.2	Complicity	187
5.3	The Intertwining Between Desire, Anxiety and Prohibition: A Brief Exegesis of a Passage by Proust	189
5.4	"But Not Now": Hopes and Anxiety Before the Law (Vor dem Gesetz)	192
5.5	Involuted Anxiety	195
5.6	On Self-Disappointment	199

6	Some Final Remarks	201
6.1	A Retrospective Look	201
6.2	Writing for Posterity	202
6.3	Becoming a Witness of Anxiety	204
	References.	206
	General Bibliography	211