

Contents

Preface	vii
Introduction: what happened to Poland?	1
 Part I: The birth of a monster: Poland after 2015
1 Breakthrough? The 2015 elections	21
2 The tsunami of populism	46
3 True leaders of the nation: Law and Justice's continued popularity among citizens	77
4 Toothless liberals? The current state of democratic opposition	99
 Part II: A thirty years' war of words: reconstruction post-1989
5 The Polish-Jewish relationship debate	131
6 The economic transformation debate	146
7 The never-ending de-communisation debate	161
 Part III: A fractured identity: long-term challenges for Poland
8 Sources of post-traumatic sovereignty	187
9 Beyond the occupation mentality	206

10	Post-traumatic sovereignty strikes back	231
11	A kidnapped West in the European Union	243
	Conclusion: post-traumatic sovereignty and war	261
	Notes	270
	Acknowledgements	346
	Index	349