

THE ROUTLEDGE HANDBOOK OF GENDER ARCHAEOLOGY

Edited by Marianne Moen and Unn Pedersen

CONTENTS

List of figures and tables	ix
List of contributors	xii
INTRODUCTION
Framing the archaeology of gender	1
1 Framing gender in archaeology: snapshots from a vast and varied field Marianne Moen and Unn Pedersen	3
SECTION 1
Introducing feminist pedagogies, methodologies, and potentials	13
2 Feminist archaeological pedagogies Hannah Cobb	15
3 Feminist archaeology for the present: maintenance activities and social caring Laia Colomer, Paloma González-Marcén and Marina Picazo	30
4 Posthumanist feminist archaeology: a becoming Rachel J. Crellin	45
5 The influence of women and feminist thinking on the development of an 'emotional archaeology' Jane Eva Baxter	59
6 Intersectional thinking in archaeological analysis Anna S. Agbe-Davies	73

Contents

7	Gendered technology and technology that genders Catherine J. Frieman	87
SECTION 2
Reviewing the impacts of feminist thought		101
8	Gender in the Middle Ages: marginalisation and mainstreaming in later medieval archaeology Roberta Gilchrist and Karen Dempsey	103
9	The Matilda effect in archaeology: recovering women for the history of the discipline Margarita Díaz-Andreu	126
10	Uncloaking non-male agency in rock art production and use Kelley Hays-Gilpin and Linea Sundstrom	146
11	Sex, gender, and the division of labour in the European Middle and Upper Palaeolithic Jennifer C. French	161
12	Gender in the European Bronze Age: rethinking the universal binary in Northern Europe Mark Haughton	175
SECTION 3
Marking identities and personhood in life and death		189
13	Intersections between gender, personhood, and kinship Chris Fowler	191
14	The construction, performance, and effects of gender: reflection on the evidence from prehistoric burials Marie Louise Stig Sørensen	211
15	Broken bodies: gender, fragmentation, and social transformation in prehistoric Cyprus Diane Bolger	223
16	Memory and temporality: a Viking Age example Elisabeth Arwill-Nordbladh	238

SECTION 4
Addressing marginalisation through feminist views	255
17 Archaeological approaches to gendered institutions: tracing continuities in pre- and post-independence Ireland Laura McAtackney	257
18 From landscapes to kinscapes: engendering Métis relations Dawn Wambold and Kisha Supernant	274
19 Gender, intersectionality, and restitutive justice Dawn M. Rutecki and K. Anne Pyburn	288
20 Indigenous futures in archaeology Kristen D. Barnett	301
SECTION 5
Envisaging gendered lives	315
21 Gender and the archaeological sciences: gender, mobility, and kinship in European prehistory Penny Bickle	317
22 Caring for the house and the community: women’s agency in western Sicily, 8th–5th century BC Meritxell Ferrer	332
23 Imagining and gendering the past: public outreach as a research method Unn Pedersen and Elna Siv Kristoffersen	349
24 The archaeology of motherhood Katharina Rebay-Salisbury	371
25 Other pasts: feminist archaeology, maintenance activities, and reconceptualisation Sandra Montón-Subías	383
SECTION 6
Bodies, politics, and feminist rethinkings	397
26 The skeletal body as archaeology: osteological sex and gender archaeology Taylor Peacock	399

Contents

27	Bodies past and present: the political side of embodied approaches to Viking Age lives Marianne Moen	413
28	Merely naturecultural: notes on ontology of sex/gender in ancient Egypt Uroš Matić	427
	Index	444