

Rethinking Conflict Resolution and Management

I. William Zartman

Jacob Blaustein Distinguished Professor Emeritus of International Organization and Conflict Resolution, Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University, USA; Processes of International Negotiation (PIN)

Siniša Vuković

Senior Lecturer of Conflict Management and Global Policy and Director of the MA in Global Policy Program, Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University, USA; Processes of International Negotiation (PIN)

RETHINKING POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

Preface: forward to rethinking	viii
1 Introduction—collapsed system: rethinking world disorder	1
2 How the study of conflict management and resolution was rethought and expanded: a history of rethinking	18
3 Rethinking conflict	38
4 Rethinking power in peacemaking	54
5 Rethinking ripeness: in search of mutually enticing opportunities	68
6 Rethinking mediation	83
7 Rethinking prevention of escalation	99
8 Rethinking governance, protest, and revolt	116
9 Rethinking inclusion and representation	132
10 Rethinking hybrid conflicts	146
11 Rethinking people	164
12 Conclusion: onward to recreating	178
Appendix A: PIN publications	180
Index	182