

Lukas Meier

Swiss Science,
African Decolonization
and the Rise of Global Health, 1940–2010

Schwabe Verlag Basel

Contents

---

Foreword by Thierry A. Freyvogel and Marcel Tanner . . . . .	7
Acknowledgments . . . . .	9
Abbreviations . . . . .	10
Introduction
Science, Medicine and Decolonization . . . . .	13
Chapter 1
Decolonization, Development and Geographies of Knowledge . . . . .	35
Refashioning Science: Science for Development . . . . .	36
Establishment of the IDERT at Adiopodoumé . . . . .	39
Science and Expertise in Mahenge (Ulanga) District, Tanganyika . . . . .	42
Science and Decolonization . . . . .	57
Chapter 2
Switzerland in the World . . . . .	59
Science and the Postwar Economic Order . . . . .	60
Shifting towards Colonialism? . . . . .	98
Chapter 3
Scientists in the Field . . . . .	101
The Discovery of Côte d'Ivoire . . . . .	102
The Permanent Expedition: Tanganyika 1954–1961 . . . . .	114
Inventorizing and Improving Africa: Swiss Science in the Field . . . . .	130
Chapter 4
The Charitable Impulse: Development and Nutritional Research in Switzerland and Africa . . . . .	131
“A New Ethic of Giving” . . . . .	132
Développement Manqué: The Case of Côte d'Ivoire . . . . .	154
The Nestlé Foundation and the Construction of Moderate Protein-Calorie Malnutrition in Côte d'Ivoire . . . . .	164
Variations of Development and the Power of Phenomenotechnique . . . . .	178

Chapter 5

The Empire Retreats: Medical Research, Development and the Rise of Social Medicine . . . . .	181
Dismantling the Rural Aid Center – The Road to Preventive Medicine . . . . .	184
The Medical Assistants Training Center 1973–1978 . . . . .	186
The Rise of Social Medicine in Switzerland . . . . .	191
Decolonizing Swiss Medical Research in Tanzania . . . . .	199
Bringing Science Back in: The Emergence of a New Dispositive . . . . .	214

Chapter 6

The Transformation of Swiss Science in the Era of Structural Adjustment . .	217
Development's Hangover and the Failure of Primary Health Care . . . . .	220
Integrating the Swiss Tropical Institute Field Laboratory into Tanzanian Health Structures . . . . .	223
The End of the “Pacte Colonial”: Scientific Disconnects and the Africanization of the CSRS in Côte d’Ivoire . . . . .	237
Towards a New World Order . . . . .	248

Chapter 7

The Governance of Malaria Research in Tanzania . . . . .	251
SPf66 – A Vaccine Candidate from the South . . . . .	254
Intermittent Preventive Treatment of Malaria in Infants – History in the Making . . . . .	269
The Forgotten Southern Zone: Implementation Research in Mtwara and Lindi Regions 2004–2009 . . . . .	271
Beyond the Laboratory . . . . .	284

Epilogue

Science and Decolonization Revisited. . . . .	285
Colonial Science . . . . .	285
Development . . . . .	288
Switzerland's Late Decolonization . . . . .	291
Writing a Swiss History of Science in Africa . . . . .	293

References

Archives, Sources, Publications. . . . .	295
--	-----