

THE LIFE OF TIRSO DE MOLINA
(FRAY GABRIEL JUSEPE TÉLLEZ)
(1579-1648)

by Henry W. Sullivan
& Jane W. Albrecht

Edition Reichenberger · Kassel 2024

TABLE OF CONTENTS

List of Figures .....	xii
Prologue by Enrique Mora González .....	xiii
Preface &amp; Acknowledgments .....	xv
1. The Birth of Gabriel Téllez in Madrid & His Baptism on March 29, 1579 .....	1
Preamble (1) – The Centuries-Long Confusion over Tirso’s Birth and Parentage (2) – The Battle of Alcazarquivir & the Fall of the House of Aviz (4) – Gabriel’s Babyhood & Sister Catalina (8) – Gabriel’s Two God-Brothers by his Godmother, Doña Francisca de Aguilar (12) – Gabriel’s Early Educa- tion (13) – The Unexplained Quinquennium, 1595-1600 (15) – Was the Pseudonym “Tirso” One Cipher for the Sacrifice of Gabriel’s Sexuality? (21) – Conclusion (22) – Works Cited (23)
2. Fray Gabriel Téllez’s Order of Mercy .....	24
Preamble (24) – Religious & Military Orders in the Middle Ages (26) – The Foundation of the Order of Mercy (28) – Mercedarian Religious Habit & In- signia (30) – The Redemption of Captives (31) – Reasons for Gabriel’s Choice of Order (33) – Requirements for the Novitiate, Places of Study & Higher Degrees (36) – The Grace & Free-Will Controversy (40) – The The- ological Influence of Fray Francisco Zumel O.M. (1540-1607) (44) – The Mercedarian Paintings of Francisco de Zurbarán (1598-1664) (50) – Con- clusion (57) – Works Cited (59)
3. Why did Tirso de Molina Call Himself Tirso de Molina? .....	61
Preamble (61) – Why Adopt a Nom de Plume at All? (62) – Why Tirso? (64) – Thyrsus (“Tirso”) as 3 rd -Century A.D. Saint and Martyr (66) – The Pastoral Theory (67) – Thyrsus (“Tirso”) as Dionysian Phallic Symbol (68) – Why “de Molina?” (71) – Five Theories on the Alias “de Molina” (72) – Renaissance Imposture & Self-Fashioning (79) – Conclusion (81) – Works Cited (83)

4. The Mechanics & Poetics of Tirso's Dramatic Production (1606-1631) . . . . . 85
 Preamble (85) – First Mentions of Tirso as Playwright (89) – Varying Estimates of Tirso's Production, 1606-1631 (92) – The Madrid Corrales (93) – The Shape of the Spanish comedia (96) – Tirso's Stagecraft (99) – "Love Is a Hermaphrodite" (104) – Female Transvestism & Suggestions of Lesbianism (108) – Male Transvestism & Suggestions of Homosexuality (115) – Incest (118) – Narcissism (126) – Satyriasis & Don Juanism (128) – Proleptic Necrosadism (131) – Growth of His Fame, 1620-1625 (133) – Conclusion (135) – Works Cited (137)
5. The Mission to Santo Domingo, 1616-1618 . . . . . 140
 Preamble (140) – The Raid of Sir Francis Drake, January 1, 1586 (142) – The Need for the Mission (143) – Departure on the Frigate Nuestra Señora del Rosario, April 10, 1616 (146) – State of the Mercedarian Foundations in Santo Domingo (148) – Catechesis & the Sacraments (151) – The Doctrine of the Immaculate Conception (157) – The Miracles of the Virgin Mary on La Hispaniola (161) – The Portrait of Tirso by Óscar Marín Not Painted on the Island in 1617 (163) – The Effect of America & Caribbean Languages on Tirso's Later Dramatic Production (167) – Return to Spain & Attendance at the Guadalajara Chapter General, June 2, 1618 (169) – Conclusion (170) – Works Cited (171)
6. The Second Defenestration of Prague, May 23, 1618 & Tirso's El celoso prudente . . . . . 173
 Preamble (173) – El celoso prudente & Prior Treatments of the Politics of Bohemia by Golden-Age Dramatists (176) – Events in Bohemia Leading Up to the Second Defenestration (181) – El celoso prudente, Its Bohemian Setting & Lone Spanish Protagonist (183) – Tirso's Commentary on the Bohemian War (190) – The Battle of White Mountain, November 8, 1620 (192) – The Play's Inclusion in Tirso's First Miscellany, Los cigarrales de Toledo (1624) (193) – Conclusion (195) – Works Cited (197)
7. The Reign of Philip III (1598-1621) & the Successor Regime of the Count-Duke of Olivares . . . . . 199
 Preamble (199) – The Rule of Philip III & his Favorite, the Duke of Lerma (200) – The Monarch's Support for the Religious Orders (202) – The Change of Regime Under the Count-Duke of Olivares (204) – Power of the Mercedarians & Tirso de Molina's Tanto es lo de más como lo de menos (211) – Other Works of Satire and Attack (214) – Tirso Defined as an Enemy of the Regime (217) – Conclusion (220) – Works Cited (223)

8. Tirso's Condemnation by the Junta de Reformati3n,
 March 6, 1625 ..... 224
 Preamble (224) – The Conflict with Fray Pedro Franco de Guzmán, O.M.
 (225) – Sabotage of the Cigarrales & Tirso's First Volume of Plays (226) –
 Text of the Junta's Ban (227) – Punitive Measures Imposed by the Committee Examined (229) – Conclusion (230) – Works Cited (232)
9. Tirso at the Crossroads of His Career, 1625-1626 ..... 233
 Preamble (233) – Tirso's First Reactions to the Junta's Ban (234) – Partial Mercedarian Cooperation with the Edict (235) – The Contents of Tirso's
 First Volume of Plays (Doze comedias nuevas) (1627) (236) – The Appointment to the Monastery of Trujillo (Cáceres), 1626-1629 (243) – The Trend Towards Contrition & Religiously Edifying Literature (243) – Did Tirso Plan to Publish Any Further Volumes of Plays? (249) – Conclusion (250) – Works Cited (251)
10. Téllez's Wider Kinship Network, Its Converso Origins,
 & The Playwright's Six Theories of Love ..... 252
 Preamble (252) – The Converso Origins of Téllez's Wider Kinship Network
 (253) – Don Ascensio López de Paz Coutiño (1530s-1602) & Godmother
 Doña Francisca de Aguilar (255) – Andrés López (1553?-1618), Gabriel's Father (260) – Francisco Antonio López de Aguilar Coutiño (1585-1665), Gabriel's Younger Godbrother (262) – Pedro Mexía de Tovar (1562-1637),
 1st Count of Molina & His Second Wife, Doña Elvira Clara de Paz y Pacheco
 (263) – Pedro Mexía de Tovar y Paz (1614-1664), 2nd Count of Molina (265)
 – Don Alonso Antonio de Paz & the Salamanca Connection (268) – Medieval & Renaissance Theories of Love (272) – The Courtly Love Theory
 (272) – The Neo-Platonic Love Theory (274) – The Mystic Love System
 (276) – The Pastoral Love Conventions (278) – Love & the Honor Code
 (280) – The Neo-Scholastic or Atomistic Theory of Love (281) – Conclusion
 (282) – Works Cited (283)
11. Tirso as Prior of the Convent of Trujillo (Cáceres), 1626-1629 & the Pizarro Trilogy ..... 285
 Preamble (285) – The Mercedarian Convent in Trujillo (286) – Peru & the Pizarro Family Background (287) – Todo es dar en una cosa ("Ending Up in a Single Outcome is Everything") (289) – Amazonas en las Indias ("Amazon Women of the Indies") (297) – La lealtad contra la envidia ("Loyalty Versus Envy") (301) – Conclusion (306) – Works Cited (307)

12. Téllez's Literary Battles with Contemporaries & the Death of his Elder Sister (1630) . . . . . 309
 Preamble (309) – Tirso versus Miguel de Cervantes Saavedra (311) – Tirso versus Luis de Góngora y Argote (316) – Tirso versus Juan Ruiz de Alarcón y Mendoza (319) – Tirso versus Lope de Vega Carpio (322) – Tirso versus Francisco de Quevedo y Villegas (326) – The Death of Prioress Catalina de San José (329) – Conclusion (332) – Works Cited (333)
13. The First Edition of El burlador de Sevilla (1630) . . . . . 334
 Preamble (334) – Date of Composition, Relationship to ¡Tan largo me lo fiáis! & The Authorship Question (336) – Date of Composition (336) – Relationship of El burlador to Tan largo me lo fiáis (338) – Authorship of El burlador (343) – The Candidacy of Andrés de Claramonte (346) – Stylometry & More on the Authorship Question (349) – Origins of the Don Juan Legend (352) – Conclusion (358) – Works Cited (359)
14. Maestro Téllez's General History of the Order of Our Lady of Mercy, 1632-1639 . . . . . 363
 Preamble (363) – Téllez's Appointment as Chronicler of the Order (364) – The Prior Labor of Fray Alonso Remón O.M. & Téllez's Revised Conception of the History (365) – Téllez's Remarks on the New World (369) – The Text as Indirect Autobiography (373) – Fate of the Manuscript (374) – Value of Tirso's Most Extensive Work (375) – Conclusion (377) – Works Cited (377)
15. The Controversies Surrounding Tirso's Nephew, Francisco Lucas de Ávila (1605?-after 1652) . . . . . 379
 Preamble (379) – The Tradition which Denies the Nephew's Real Existence (380) – The Tradition which Affirms the Nephew's Real Existence (382) – *Doña Jusepa Téllez López, Tirso's Younger Sister? (387) – Francisco de Ávila (1575-1580?-after 1617), Tirso's Brother-in-Law? (392) – Francisco Lucas de Ávila (1605?-after 1652), Tirso's Nephew? (398) – Doña Inés de Heredia, Tirso's Niece by Marriage? (399) – Conclusion (400) – Works Cited (401)
16. Tirso's Last Play & His Tribute to Portugal, Las quinas de Portugal (March 8, 1638) . . . . . 403
 Preamble (403) – Tirso's Special Relationship with Portugal (404) – Definition of Quincunx (406) – Growing Unrest in Portugal during the Reign of Philip IV (407) – Occasion & Story of the Play (409) – The Growth of Sebastianismo & The Belief in a Mystical Fifth Empire (415) – Implications for Tirso's Play (417) – Reception History of the Play (417) – Conclusion (420) – Works Cited (421)

17. The Revolt of Catalonia (1640) & Tirso's Confinement in Cuenca .....	423
Preamble (423) – Olivares' Policy Towards Catalonia (424) – The Outbreak of the Catalan Revolt & the Reapers' War, June 7, 1640 (425) – Tirso De- tained on Trumped-Up Charges by Fray Marcos de Salmerón O.M. (426) – Was Tirso's Attorney, Diego de Ávila, a Near Relative of His? (428) – Téllez Under House Arrest at the Mercedarian Monastery in Cuenca (1640-1643) (429) – The Fall of Olivares & the Defeat of Rocroi, May 19, 1643 (430) – Conclusion (431) – Works Cited (432)
18. Prior of the Convent of Soria, 1645-1647 .....	433
Preamble (433) – Salmerón Elected General of the Order, June 7, 1642 (434) – Single Plays of Tirso de Molina Published or Republished in Omnibus Edi- tions (435) – Duties at Soria, 1545-1647 (435) – Conclusion (437) – Works Cited (437)
19. The Last Days of Tirso de Molina & His Death in Almazán, circa February 20, 1648 .....	438
Preamble (438) – The Confusion of Adnumantia (Almazán) & Numantia (Soria) (438) – The Status of Maestro Molina's Health (440) – Possible Caus- es of Death at the Monastery of Almazán (440) – Previous Attempts to Lo- cate His Grave (442) – The Demise of Fray Marcos de Salmerón (444) – Tir- so a Broken & Forgotten Man? (445) – Conclusion (446) – Works Cited (447)
20. General Conclusion .....	448
Tirso's Wider Family Network (448) – Madrid & the Spanish Contingent (449) – Coimbra & the Portuguese Contingent (450) – Dr. Ascensio López as Pivot Between Coimbra & Madrid (451) – The de Paz Clan (452) – The Exogamous Family of de Ávila (453) – The Dramatic Uniqueness of Tirso de Molina (454)
Index .....	460