

Tieji Xiong

An Academic History of China's Han Dynasty

Volume I

Communicational Factors in Academic Development

Translated by Yinbo Li

Contents

1 Historical and Cultural Background of Academics in Han Dynasty	1
1.1 Radical Social Changes and Developing Trends During the Eastern Zhou	2
1.2 “Contention of Hundred Schools of Thought” in Scholastic Culture and Its Meaning	6
1.3 Main Political Features of the Han Dynasty	13
References	18
2 Academic Carriers in the Early Han Dynasty	19
2.1 Scholars in the Early Han Dynasty	20
2.2 Books in the Early Han Dynasty	34
References	39
3 Evolution of Academic Carriers in the Earlier and the Later Han	41
3.1 Gains and Losses in Books	41
3.1.1 An Overview of Gains and Losses in Books in the Earlier Han	45
3.1.2 An Overview of Gains and Losses in Books in the Later Han	56
3.2 Textual Reforming of the Surviving Pre-Qin Books	69
3.2.1 The Daoist Classic: Laozi	69
3.2.2 The Six Confucian Classics	71
3.2.3 The Various Philosophers’ Books	82
3.3 Research and Contributions of Han Scholars	86
3.3.1 Transmission of Academic Works by Teaching	86
3.3.2 Erudite or Expert	93
3.3.3 Entering Society or Retreating from Society	99
3.3.4 Functions and Contributions of Scholars in Han Dynasty	106
References	138

4	Influential Moves in Developing Han Academics	141
4.1	The Boshi Institution: Its Formation, Development and Influence	143
4.2	“Xianliang’s Answers About Policies”: Its Meaning and Influence	150
4.3	Meetings at Shiquge: Its Meaning	160
4.4	Collation of Books by Liu Xiang and His Son	165
4.4.1	The Collation of Books: When and Who	165
4.4.2	The Collation of Books: Ways and Results	168
4.4.3	Rearranging the Contents and Summarizing the Main Ideas	174
4.4.4	The Shulu and the Qiliie	177
4.4.5	Collation of Books by Liu Xiang and His Son: A Review	183
4.5	Cultural Policies in the Early Years of the Later Han	185
4.6	Emperors Talking Classics with Their Courtiers & the Baihuguan Meeting	191
4.7	Institutionization of Opening Schools & Collating Books	196
4.7.1	The Institutionalization of Opening Schools	196
4.7.2	The Institutionalization of Collating Books	198
	References	208
5	Convergence and Integration of Different Academic Schools	211
5.1	How Han Scholars Reviewed the Pre-Qin Philosophers	212
5.1.1	The Objective Existence of Different Schools	212
5.1.2	The Different Schools Classified in the Warring States Period	214
5.1.3	Sima Tan and His Lun Liujia Zhi Yaozhi	217
5.1.4	Sima Qian’s Remarks on the Pre-Qin Philosophers	219
5.1.5	How Ban Gu’s Yiwen Zhi Classified the Schools and Their Main Ideas	221
5.1.6	Features of Hundred Schools and Their Contentions	228
5.2	Neo-Confucianism in the Han Dynasty	240
5.2.1	The Evolution of Confucianism in the Pre-Qin Era	240
5.2.2	Confucianism in the Early Earlier Han Dynasty	243
5.2.3	Dong Zhongshu: Theorist of Neo-Confucianism of Han Dynasty	248
5.2.4	Evolution of Neo-Confucianism During Han Dynasty	257
5.3	Neo-Daoism of Qin and Han Dynasties	259
5.3.1	Qin and Han Neo-Daoism and Classification of the Schools	260
5.3.2	The Features of Qin and Han Neo-Daoism	262
5.3.3	Absorbing Ideas from Various Schools of Teaching	266
5.4	The Monopoly of Confucian Classics Study and Its Influence	267

5.4.1	Worshipping Confucian Five Classics While Depreciating Pre-Qin Philosophers	269
5.4.2	Elaborated “Confucian Classics Study” and Booming Zhuan and Zhu of the Classics	271
5.4.3	Leading Official Teaching with Booming Private Teachings	280
5.4.4	Influence of the Monopolizing Confucian Classics Study	288
5.5	Massive Reconstruction of the Pre-Qin Books	293
5.5.1	Proliferating Pre-Qin Books in the Earlier Han Dynasty ...	293
5.5.2	Books Changed During Teaching	297
5.5.3	Official Discussions and Collations of Books	305
5.5.4	Several Points of Recognition	312
	References	314
6	Formation of Traditional Academic Features	317
6.1	Comprehensiveness Due to the Unity of Dao and Qi	317
6.2	Political-Function-Centered Humanistic Pragmatism	324
6.3	Continuity Through Interpretation	332
6.4	Overall Comment on These Academic Features	341
6.5	Laws Underlying These Academic Features	344
	References	347
	Epilogue	349
	Table of Emperors and Their Reigning Titles in Han Dynasty	353
	Table of Dynasties in China’s History	357
	Reference Lists	359
	Personal Name Index	365