

Driving Terror

Labor, Violence, and Justice
in Cold War Argentina

Karen Robert

Contents

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	xi
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xiii
INTRODUCTION.
A Cold War Model T	I
CHAPTER ONE.
The Falcon Family	22
CHAPTER TWO.
From Aristocracy to Insurgency	51
CHAPTER THREE.
"It Was Like a War"	79
CHAPTER FOUR.
Driving Terror	109
CHAPTER FIVE.
Survivors and Citizens	135
CHAPTER SIX.
History, Justice, Memory	165
CONCLUSION.
Endurance	207
NOTES	215
REFERENCES	259
INDEX	285

Illustrations

- Figure 1. Ford Motors assembly plant in La Boca, Buenos Aires (ca. 1925) · 25
- Figure 2. Workers at the Ford Argentina factory (1960s) · 52
- Figure 3. Pedro Troiani at the Ford Argentina factory, General Pacheco (1960s) · 53
- Figure 4. Pedro Troiani and Elisa Charlín on their honeymoon in Mar del Plata · 54
- Figure 5. Map of the Zona Norte · 61
- Figure 6. Ford Falcon in Bariloche, Argentina (2018) · 171
- Figure 7. Detail from Secuela by Fernando Gutiérrez (2004) · 174
- Figure 8. El Broche, Plaza de la Independencia, Tandil, Argentina (2004) · 197
- Figure 9. Ford plaintiffs, Federal Criminal Court of San Martín, Argentina (2018) · 202