

Edward A. Tenenbaum and the Deutschmark

How an American Jew Became the Father of Germany's Postwar Economic Revival

CARL-LUDWIG HOLTFRERICH

Free University of Berlin

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

	page
List of Figures	ix
1 Introduction	1
2 Ludwig Erhard, Who Took Credit for Edward A. Tenenbaum's Success	11
2.1 Erhard's Vita in Short	23
2.2 Was Erhard a Two-Time Political Turncoat?	29
2.3 How Candid Was Erhard's Treatment of Historical Truths?	70
2.4 Did Erhard Have His Act Together or Was He Just a Talented Self-Promoter?	78
3 Edward A. Tenenbaum's Family Roots, Adolescence, and Military Experience until 1946	94
3.1 Family Roots and Adolescence until BA Graduation at Yale in June 1942	94
3.2 In OSS and Military Service 1942–1946	140
3.2.1 In the United States	140
3.2.2 In Western Europe	190
3.2.3 In Wartime Germany	196
3.2.4 In Postwar Germany	299
4 In Action for OMGUS and Currency Reform in Germany 1946–1948	310
4.1 In the Run-up to C-Day: General Political Setting	310
4.1.1 International Political Setting	310
4.1.2 Two Specific Questions	322
4.2 Planning and Preparing for C-Day: Tenenbaum's Role	355

4.3	Cage, Concentration Camp, Reorientation Camp, and Conclave of Rothwesten	439
4.4	Currency Reform, Consequences, and Assessments	474
4.4.1	Currency Reform	474
4.4.2	Consequences	488
4.4.3	Assessments	523
5	From OMGUS to Civil Service in Washington, DC and for Europe 1948–1953	547
5.1	ECA, MSA, and IMF in Washington, DC 1948–1952	547
5.1.1	ECA from October 1948 to July 1950	553
5.1.2	IMF from July 1950 to May 1951	555
5.1.3	ECA/MSA from May 1951 to April 1952 in Washington, DC	556
5.2	For MSA in Athens 1952–1953: Greek Currency Reform	562
6	Life and Fate as a Businessman and Family Man 1953–1975 and Beyond	594
6.1	Businessman	594
6.2	Family Man and Beyond	609
7	Conclusion	626
	Notes	631
	Acknowledgments	752
	List of Abbreviations	756
	Index	764

Figures

2.1	Phoenix from the Ashes caricature of Ludwig Erhard by Rolf Peter Bauer, 1959 in Hamburger Abendblatt	page 20
2.2	Photo of Ludwig Erhard, with cigar in his right hand, behind a giant Deutschmark coin, taken 1959 by Sven Simon	20
2.3	Caricature of Ludwig Erhard by Rolf Brinkmann, The Face of the D-Mark	21
2.4	Title page of Ludwig Erhard, Wohlstand für Alle (paperback edition 1962)	22
3.1	Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum (left) stands with Fiorello LaGuardia NYC mayor (center) and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise (right) in front of a medical field unit sponsored by the United Jewish War Effort that is being sent to the Soviet Union, 1943	112
3.2	Edward A. Tenenbaum 1938 at École Internationale de Genève (Ecolint)	117
3.3	Sketch of Edward A. Tenenbaum, nicknamed "Charli" by later famous Ecolint classmate Milein Cosman 1938	118
3.4	Pierson College on Yale campus. Tenenbaum and his best friend John A. Kneubuhl lived here for three years	119
3.5	Edward A. Tenenbaum and his best friend at Yale John A. Kneubuhl at graduation time 1942	120
3.6	Yale College – From scholarship record card of Edward A. Tenenbaum	134
3.7	Edward A. Tenenbaum's draft registration card and report of February 16, 1942	138
3.8	Military training on Yale campus 1942–1943	141

3.9	Charles P. Kindleberger, head of the Enemy Objectives Unit (EOU) 1943–1944 in London, with a part of his team relaxing from work	167
3.10	General Omar N. Bradley awards the Bronze Star to Captain Charles P. Kindleberger 1944 for his work in World War II with OSS, especially as head of the Enemy Objectives Unit (EOU) in London from February 1943 until May 1944	168
3.11	Lieutenant Edward A. Tenenbaum in military uniform	176
3.12	Meeting of Tenenbaum’s OSS colleagues in liberated Paris. The second European OSS R&A branch office after London was headed by Harold C. Deutsch	191
3.13	The Adolf Hitler Bridge across the Moselle in Coblenz on a postcard 1939	203
3.14	Destroyed bridges of Coblenz, with the Adolf Hitler Bridge in the foreground after its blasting by the German defenders of Coblenz on March 8, 1945. Tenenbaum almost lost his life here	203
3.15	Third US Army’s final casualty report as compared to enemy losses for the whole campaign from Normandy to Czechoslovakia	205
3.16	On April 12, 1945 Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower, Omar Bradley, and George Patton, Jr. as well as other high brass of the US Army visited camp Ohrdruf, an outpost of the Buchenwald concentration camp	218
3.17	Margaret Bourke-White, US Army photographer of unspeakable atrocities at Buchenwald concentration camp after its liberation on April 11, 1945	220
3.18	Lieutenant Edward A. Tenenbaum and other soldiers of the US Army were confronted with this and even worse scenes, like piles of dead bodies, after they had liberated 21,000 inmates of concentration camp Buchenwald near Weimar on April 11, 1945	221

3.19	Reichsbank gold reserves detected by US troops in a salt mine near Merkers/Thuringia on April 8, 1945	225
3.20	On April 12, 1945 Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower, Omar Bradley, and George Patton, Jr. inspect art treasures stolen by Nazis and hidden in a salt mine near Merkers/Thuringia	226
3.21	Edward A. Tenenbaum in military uniform with his wife Jeanette Kipp Tenenbaum	303
4.1	Discussion of food and agricultural problems in Germany at General Clay's Berlin headquarters on February 7, 1947	314
4.2	Consultations of Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman and Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson with General Lucius D. Clay and his highest OMGUS officials in Berlin on July 3, 1947 on the economy of Western Europe	315
4.3	Like this, Deutschmark banknotes, printed in USA at the expense of the US government, were unloaded in Bremerhaven and transported by rail to Frankfurt am Main during the last quarter of 1947	334
4.4	"Birddog" project money completely produced and shipped by December 19, 1947	350
4.5	Edward A. Tenenbaum working in his home in Berlin-Dahlem	355
4.6	First home of the Tenenbaums in Gelfertstr. 47 A, Berlin-Dahlem	362
4.7	Second home of the Tenenbaums in Föhrenweg 15, Berlin-Dahlem	366
4.8	Edward A. Tenenbaum, civil servant in OMGUS Berlin as "special assistant for currency reform" at age 25	367
4.9	Jack Bennett, financial adviser of General Lucius D. Clay and OMGUS in Berlin, to whom Tenenbaum, as "special assistant for currency reform," was attached	367

4.10	Edward A. Tenenbaum leaving the British Sector of Berlin	368
4.11	Edward A. Tenenbaum with his daughter Anne, who was born in Berlin in 1947	373
4.12	Original table for the top-secret sessions of members of the Conclave of Rothwesten, now part of the Currency Reform Museum at the same location	452
4.13	Edward A. Tenenbaum with nine of the eleven German members of the top-secret Conclave of Rothwesten	454
4.14	Economic and monetary indicators for West Germany (Trizone), June to December 1948	513
5.1	Greece's balance on current account in 1948	574
5.2	Agricultural production and productivity 1953 compared to 1938/39	574
5.3	Annual US aid to Greece 1947/48 to 1953/54	574
5.4	Increase in consumption and economic activity 1952 compared to 1938/39	575
5.5	Inflationary/deflationary balance sheet to improve on monitoring money supply	584
6.1	First Continental-Allied Company seat, 1823 Jefferson Place NW, Washington, DC	595
6.2	Second Continental-Allied Company seat, 1333 G Street NW, Washington, DC	600
6.3	Third Continental-Allied Company seat, 1319 F Street NW, Washington, DC	605
6.4	Edward A. Tenenbaum in his office in Washington, DC 1964	608
6.5	Jack Bennett as Tenenbaum's partner in Continental-Allied Company 1954–1960	608
6.6	Instead of posting a happy-family photo at his 25th Yale reunion, Tenenbaum chose this 1965 photo of his teenage son Mark holding a cow on a leash in front of a barn	611

- | | | |
|-----|--|-----|
| 6.7 | Newspaper article on Edward A. Tenenbaum's fatal car accident on Route 15 in Dillsburg near Harrisburg, PA on October 14, 1975 | 614 |
| 6.8 | Grave plaque at Arlington Cemetery | 625 |