

Arab youths

Leisure, culture and politics from
Morocco to Yemen

Edited by
Laurent Bonnefoy and Myriam Catusse

Originally published in French as
Jeunes arabes: Du Maroc au Yémen: loisirs, cultures et politiques

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

|                                                                                                                                           |      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| Contributors                                                                                                                              | ix   |
| Foreword: Arab youth inside outFrançois Burgat                                                                                 | xiv  |
| Note on translation                                                                                                                       | xvii |
| General introduction: Deconstructing stereotypes: interwoventrajectories of young ArabsLaurent Bonnefoy and Myriam Catusse | 1    |
| Part I: Living in the present                                                                                                      |      |
| Introduction: Living in the presentLaurent Bonnefoy and Myriam Catusse                                                         | 19   |
| 1 'Go ahead, burn your tyres!': The lust for life of Saudi joyridersPascal Menoret                                             | 22   |
| 2 'Just watching the time go by': The 'hittists' of AlgeriaLoïc Le Pape                                                        | 33   |
| 3 Coffee shops and youth sociability in Abu DhabiLaure Assaf                                                                   | 43   |
| 4 From TV soaps to web dramas: A new platform for young ArabsYves Gonzalez-Quijano                                             | 53   |
| 5 The buyat : Subverting gender norms in Saudi ArabiaAmélie Le Renard                                                   | 57   |

Contents

|    |                                                                                                        |     |
|----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 6  | From jihad to Sufi ecstasy: Politico-religious trajectories in pre-revolutionary Syria          | 67  |
|    | Thomas Pierret                                                                                  |     |
| 7  | The Faculty of Education of Lab'us: Salafism as a student subculture in Yemen                          | 77  |
|    | Laurent Bonnefoy                                                                                |     |
| 8  | 'A man, a real man!': Halima, a woman rebel in Gafsa (Tunisia)                                         | 88  |
|    | Amin Allal                                                                                      |     |
| 9  | Long-distance supporters: Barca and Real fans in Palestine                                             | 93  |
|    | Abaher El Sakka                                                                                 |     |
| 10 | Commentary in Arabic ... or in Tigrinya? Football fans and the search for free television broadcasting | 101 |
|    | Mahfoud Amara and Laurent Bonnefoy                                                              |     |

Part II: Rooting the future

|    |                                                                                                       |     |
|----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
|    | Introduction: Rooting the future                                                                      | 109 |
|    | Laurent Bonnefoy and Myriam Catusse                                                            |     |
| 11 | Drinking in Hamra: Youthful nostalgia in Beirut?                                                      | 112 |
|    | Nicolas Dot-Pouillard                                                                          |     |
| 12 | The end of a world? Shifting seasons in Lejnan (Algeria)                                              | 121 |
|    | Mohand Akli Hadibi                                                                             |     |
| 13 | Finding Baghdad: Young people in search of 'normality'                                                | 128 |
|    | Zahra Ali and Laurent Bonnefoy                                                                 |     |
| 14 | Two brothers: Family and hospitality in Al-Karak (Jordan)                                             | 133 |
|    | Christine Jungen                                                                               |     |
| 15 | In Massada Street's coffee shops: The ambiguous social mix of the Palestinians of Israel in Haifa     | 139 |
|    | Mariangela Gasparotto                                                                          |     |
| 16 | In the shade of the khayma : Cultural and political resistance of the young Sahrawis at Dakhla | 150 |
|    | Victoria Veguilla Del Moral                                                                    |     |

Contents

- 17 Recreation, re-creation, resistance: What roles for dabke in Palestine? 160
Xavier Guignard
- 18 Taranim and videos: The Egyptian Church stripped bare by its children? 170
Laure Guirguis
- 19 'My identity is becoming clear like the sun': Theatre in the Shiite schools of Lebanon 180
Catherine Le Thomas

Part III: Constructing oneself

- Introduction: Constructing oneself 191
Laurent Bonnefoy and Myriam Catusse
- 20 'A room of one's own': Young people in search of privacy 194
Anne-Marie Filaire
- 21 A different way of being a young woman? Self-defence in Cairo 198
Perrine Lachenal
- 22 Chewing alone? The transformations of qat consumption in Yemen 208
Marine Poirier
- 23 Gulf holiday-goers in Europe: Five-star family favourites 212
Claire Beaugrand
- 24 In SOS Bab-el-Oued: Rappers and rockers between integration and transgression 217
Layla Baamara
- 25 Leaving the camp: The wanderings of young Palestinian refugees in Lebanon 227
Nicolas Puig
- 26 'Rainbow Street': The diversity, compartmentalisation and assertion of youth in Amman (Jordan) 235
Cyril Roussel
- 27 Brahim: Autopsy of a suicide in Kabylia 242
Kamel Chachoua

Contents

- 28 ‘Bnat lycée dayrin sexy’: From fun to sex work in Tangier (Morocco) 250
Mérim Cheikh

Part IV: Speaking out

- Introduction: Speaking out 263
Laurent Bonnefoy and Myriam Catusse
- 29 ‘A bad day for Ammar’: When Tunisian bloggers took on Internet censorship 266
Romain Lecomte
- 30 A new social world? Young Syrian activists and online social networks 276
Enrico De Angelis
- 31 Stand up: Saudi youth take the floor ... on YouTube! 285
Ives Gonzalez-Quijano
- 32 The café in Jadu: A place for ‘revolutionary’ emancipation in Libya 289
Arthur Quesnay
- 33 From consumerism to political engagement: Young Sunnis in Bahrain react in ‘defence of their country’ (2011–2012) 293
Claire Beaugrand
- 34 When walls speak: Revolutionary street art in Yemen 300
Anahi Alviso-Marino
- 35 Art under occupation: The Young Artist of the Year (Palestine) 308
Marion Slitine
- 36 ‘The instinct of rap’: Palestinian rap, political contents and artistic explorations 318
Nicolas Puig
- 37 Rocking in Morocco: The new urban scene in Casablanca 323
Dominique Caubet and Catherine Miller
- 38 Alexandrians in fusion: Trajectories of Egyptian musicians from alternative milieux to the revolution 336
Youssef El Chazli
- Index 347