

Contents

Acknowledgments	xiii
Abbreviations	xv
Notes on Translation and Texts	xvii

Introduction	1
--------------	---

SECTION I: CALVIN AND THE REFORMERS' INHERITED LEGAL TRADITION

1. Before Calvin: Oaths, Religious Coercion, and the Freedom of Conscience from the Medieval Church to the Reformation	15
---	----

SECTION II: ANSWERING CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS: CALVIN AND THE REFORMERS AGAINST RADICAL DISSENT AND RELIGIOUS COMPROMISE

2. Conscience, Confession, and the Consolidation of Early Public Reform in Strasbourg, 1530–1535	49
3. “Vera pietas veram confessionem parit”: Confession, Conscience, and Charity in the Anti-Nicodemism of Calvin and the Reformers	73
4. Confession, Conscience, and Christian Freedom in the Later Anti-Nicodemite Writings of Calvin and the Reformers, 1540–1562	104

SECTION III: OATHS, CONFSSIONAL SUBSCRIPTION, AND THE BINDING OF THE CONSCIENCE IN REFORMATION GENEVA

5. Citizen's Oath and Confession of Faith in Reformation Geneva, 1536–1538: Necessary, Indifferent, or a Tertium Quid ?	139
---	-----

xii CONTENTS

6. "Make Them Afraid of Bearing False Witness": Oaths, Conscience, and Discipline in the Registers of the Genevan Consistory, 1541–1564	166
7. After Calvin: Oaths, Subscription, Conscience, and Compromise in the Genevan Academy, 1559–1612	202
Conclusion	228
Bibliography	239
Index	251